

The British
Psychological Society
History of Psychology Centre

In conjunction with the
BPS History & Philosophy of Psychology Section and with the assistance of the
BPS Psychology of Women Section

Seventh Annual 'Stories of Psychology' Day

Women in Psychology: From Invisibility to Influence

Thursday 19 October 2017, Chancellor's Hall, Senate House, University of London

Convenors:

Dr Alison Torn (Leeds Trinity University); Professor Abigail Locke (University of Bradford);
Professor Marcia Worrell (University of West London); Professor Katherine Johnson (University of Brighton)

PROGRAMME

- 9.45 am Registration
- 10.25 am Opening remarks - Dr Alison Torn
- 10.30 am Early Women Members of the British Psychological Society: Challenges and Achievements - Professor Elizabeth Valentine (Royal Holloway, University of London)
- 11.00 am The British Projective Test Movement: A Queer Feminist Tale - Dr Katherine Hubbard (University of Surrey)
- 11.30 pm Anna Freud: An Advocate for Children - Dr Nick Midgley (Anna Freud Centre)
- 12.00 pm Panel discussion (Chair: Professor Katherine Johnson)
- 12.35 am Launch of Senate House Library's travelling exhibition 'Pioneer Women Psychologists at the University of London' - Dr Richard Espley (Senate House Library)
- 12.45 pm Lunch
- 1.45 pm Introduction to the afternoon session - Professor Abigail Locke
- 1.50 pm POWs (Psychology of Women Section): Power to Change? - Professor Jan Burns (Canterbury Christ Church University)
- 2.20 pm Sense and Serendipity - Professor Dame Vicki Bruce (Newcastle University)
- 2.50 pm 'In conversation with Susie Orbach' - Professor Katherine Johnson interviews the psychotherapist, writer and social critic
- 3.20 pm Panel discussion (Chair: Professor Marcia Worrell)
- 3.55 pm Closing remarks - Dr Alison Torn

At the lunch interval, the Senate House Library's exhibition 'Pioneer Women Psychologists at the University of London' will be on display. Representatives of the BPS History & Philosophy of Psychology Section and of the Psychology of Women Section will also be on hand to talk about their work and to take membership enquiries.

Acknowledgements: The BPS Psychology of Women Section for their help in shaping the day, and Senate House Library for their support in organising the event.