

In-training membership of a Division

Frequently asked questions

What are the benefits of in-training membership of a Division?

In-training membership of a Division provides a more relevant membership experience. Division members receive regular newsletters from the Division, are informed of relevant events or conferences and can keep up to date with developments in their chosen discipline.

Who is this form for?

It's for current Graduate members looking to apply for in-training membership of a Division.

To join as a Graduate member of the Society and In-training member of a Division you can do so from; www.bps.org.uk/join-us/membership/graduate-membership

Am I eligible for in-training membership?

If you are on a Society approved route to Chartered membership, e.g. an accredited postgraduate training course such as a DClinPsy or enrolled on one of the Society's qualifications you are eligible for in-training membership.

How much do I need to pay?

Fees differ depending on the Division you join and are shown on page 2.

To submit your application please email - membership@bps.org.uk – it's useful to include your membership number in the subject field of the email.
