The British Psychological Society ('the Society') is the learned and professional body, incorporated by Royal Charter, for psychologists in the United Kingdom. The Society has a total membership of approximately 50,000 and is a registered charity. Under its Royal Charter, the key objective of the Society is 'to promote the advancement and diffusion of the knowledge of psychology pure and applied and especially to promote the efficiency and usefulness of members by setting up a high standard of professional education and knowledge'.

The BPS Learning Centre is The British Psychological Society's training and development portal. We provide information and guidance on professional development, an online CPD recording system for members and offer CPD opportunities to psychologists and those working in related fields through our annual programme of CPD events and e-learning courses. The BPS Learning Centre also runs the CPD Approval Scheme to approve professional development offered by external providers as meeting the Society's CPD standards.

The CPD Approval Scheme is the Society's model of approving programmes or events (including workshops, lectures, symposia and conferences), that meet our standards for professional development.

It enables CPD providers, including Higher Education Institutions, to have programmes or events that are of relevance to psychology and/or psychologists approved. This will include, for example, programmes that do not relate to the full standards for accreditation through partnership, but which may be of interest to qualified and aspiring psychologists.

The BPS Learning Centre Approved logo (right) can be found where a programme or event has met our standards. The logo is used in conjunction with the statement: Approved by the British Psychological Society Learning Centre for the purposes of Continuing Professional Development (CPD). CPD Providers whose programmes or events have been successfully approved by the Society are encouraged to use our logo in their advertising and promotional materials.

This catalogue lists programmes and events that have been approved by The BPS Learning Centre as meeting our standards for continuing professional development.
