

Special Group in Coaching Psychology

Newsletter – May 2020

Welcome to the new monthly SGCP e-newsletter. This will keep you up to date on SGCP activities, events and things to celebrate.

If you would like something to be considered for inclusion in a forthcoming issue please contact membercomms@bps.org.uk

The global coaching conference:

Coaching psychology and the climate in times of change

31 May 2020 (Online)

Join us for an exclusive, digital coaching conference hosted by Professor Jonathan Passmore. We have planned over 11 hours of content delivered by renowned coaching experts from across the globe, including:

- Professor Reinhard Stelter – Copenhagen University, Denmark
- Dr Carol Kauffman – Institute of Coaching, USA
- Joel DiGirolamo – International Coaching Federation, USA
- Tammy Turner – Turner International, Australia

The conference will explore coaching psychology and the climate in times of change and builds upon the British Psychological Society's 2020 vision of addressing the future.

Register from £30 at:
www.bps.org.uk/sgcp2020

GLOBAL COACHING CONFERENCE

Last chance to book your place: Global Coaching Psychology Conference, Sunday 31 May

You still have time to book the SGCP online conference event this Sunday. The theme is the environment and climate change. What role do psychologists have to play?

This online event will bring together over 500 leading academics and practitioners from across the world.

It will also aim to be the first carbon neutral BPS global conference, with a portion of fees being designated to fund carbon offset projects, including offsetting the carbon used by the organisers and delegates connecting to the event.

Speakers include:

Professor Richard Boyatzis, Case Western University, US

Professor Reinhard Stelter, Copenhagen Business School, Denmark

Professor Siegfried Greif, Germany

Dr Yi Ling Lai, Birkbeck, UK

Book your place today and join your peers on Sunday for the latest in coaching psychology.

---

The Coaching Psychologist: new issue available

The latest issue of The Coaching Psychologist is available to download from the BPSShop. This includes an interview with Professor Erik de Haan and an article on team coaching in a family business.

BPS Conference 2020

30 June - 1 July | Online

This year, the society is going online.

BPS Conference 2020 was due to be held in Leeds on 30 June and 1 July and had to be postponed due to the Covid-19 pandemic, but their coming to your laptops instead.

The event will be compered by Claudia Hammond, award-winning author, broadcaster and psychology lecturer, with keynote presentations by Professor Susan Michie, Professor Miranda Wolpert OBE, Professor Alison Gopnik and Professor Paul Slovic.

They'll be among the psychologists and expert speakers hosting a series of webinars across the two days, and there will also be the chance for networking and discussion in our special online community discussion forums.

Psychology has a massive role to play in facing up to the challenges of the 21st century, not least the recovery from Covid-19, so register now for two days exploring this future from the comfort of your own kitchen table.

---

Follow SGCP on Twitter

Join us on Twitter (@SGCP) for active and lively discussions, sharing successes, papers, events and stories. Tell us about your daily experiences working in our field by using the hashtag #wearecoachingpsychologists

Here's one of our coaching psychologists tweeting about coaching in green space - we hope it's not long before we can go back to doing face to face coaching outside!

Copyright © 2020 The British Psychological Society, All rights reserved.

You are receiving this message as part of your membership of the Special Group in Coaching Psychology.

Our mailing address is:

St Andrews House, 48 Princess Road East, Leicester, LE1 7DR

Want to change how you receive these emails? Do not reply to this email.

You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list. You can also read our Privacy Policy.

The British Psychological Society is a charity registered in England and Wales (229642), and Scotland (SC039452). Our VAT Registration number is 283260994.